

PAUL CONTI Wines

Margaret River Cabernet Malbec 2019

“The Paul Conti cab malbec is an excellent example of why this blend works so well, especially in these lower priced categories. For a few years, winemakers started to move away from malbec to merlot as a blending option, but more recently, more wines using malbec are being released. It’s the brighter, ripe characters of malbec that make it an ideal variety.”

“If you’re looking for a value-for-money red wine then this little guy is right up there.

“It’s medium bodied with good fruit intensity showing those blackcurrant and red fruit florals.

“The tannin and oak contribution work well, allowing the generous fruit characters to emerge.

“Really nice wine for drinking over the next few years.”

Score: 91/100

The West Australian
Cellar Talk
Ray Jordan
Thursday 22 July, 2021